THE BOY WHO CRIED CIA

Buggy beard Castro is back ranting and raving that the CIA is trying to kill him again. Our super spy agency, fumes Fidel, attempted to carry out this mission by dispatching six men in a tub from Florida and landing them in Havana, armed with machine guns (silencers attached), rockets and further fearsome weaponry.

Ivan Has His Own Troubles You may have guessed that Fidel killed one or more (it was two) of the invaders and sank most of the evidence. You also may recall that during recent weeks there has been a flurry of Cuban army poachings on our Guantanamo Naval Base. In all cases but one the Cubans fled in the face of Marine fire. The exception was one of Fidel's men gunned down inside our base.

If Castro were as big as he brags he is, or if the Soviets were as solidly behind him as they say they are, he wouldn't stand still for this sort of thing. The truth is, of course, that the Soviets have problems at home and it looks as if Fidel & Co. are having a hard time keeping their slaves worked up.

And so, slaves, why don't you just dump that bearded bum? He can't even tell a decent spy story.
